[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] GREENSBORO, N. C., October 19.—The warrants charging murder against Marshal Millikan and other revenue officers for killing John Brame were considered before Justice D. H. Collins here this afternoon. Deputy Marshal J. M. Bailey and Revenue Agent B. W. Screvens were the only parties arrested, the other four being absent on official duty.

Solicitor Brooks and ex-Congressman Blackburn appeared for the State, and United States District Attorney Holton for the defendants. Solicitor Brooks, after consulting with District Attorney Holton, stated that owing to the fact that the other defendants had not been arrested, and that important witnesses for the prosecution had been sent to the Atlanta penitentiary early this morning, it had been agreed that further hearing be postponed until October 25th. The defendants, Bailey and Screvens, were allowed to give bond for their appearance in the sum of $5,000, with the understanding that when the other defendants returned they should give bond in like sums. Although giving bond Deputy Marshal Bailey stated that he was not in the posse that shot Brame, being two miles away.

The parties absent are Marshal James M. Milliken, Pension Agent Goethe and Deputy Collector Shepard. The two defendants gave as bondsmen for their appearance October 25th, Revenue Agent B. W. Taylor, Deputy Marshal J. T. Millikan and Deputy Collector A. J. Grace.

HAVE BRIGHT SKIES FOR YORNTOWN DAY

Ideal Weather and Great Interest in Celebration of Surrender of Cornwallis.

FINE ADDRESS BY DR. PAGE

Distinguished Virginian Delights Audience—Mayor Reyburn Also Makes Speech.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION GROUNDS, October 19.—Yorktown Day, the one hundred and twenty-sixth anniversary of the surrender of Lord Cornwallis, was fittingly observed today. There were here in honor of the day distinguished people from each of the thirteen States which battled together in the Revolution. The weather was bright.

The exercises of the day occurred in the Auditorium, beginning at 2:30 o'clock, the orators of the occasion being Dr. Thomas Nelson Page, of Virginia, and Hon. John E. Reyburn, Mayor of Philadelphia.

The band played patriotic airs. The speeches were about Revolutionary times, and the very atmosphere seemed to be pervaded with a Colonial spirit. Mayor Reyburn, exhibition director-general, called the assembly to order, and Rev. J. T. T. Hundley offered the invocation, after which Exposition President Tucker made the official address of welcome before the visitors. Dr. Page followed Mr. Tucker. He was given a most enthusiastic reception, and his speech, eloquent and polished, was one of the best yet heard at the exposition. Mayor Reyburn was the last speaker. His was a highly interesting patriotic effort, fully meriting the commendation which it received. A large party of Philadelphians came down with their Mayor.

Richard Walcott was tried for maliciously cutting Tom Oates, and given ten years in the penitentiary. He was defended by Messrs. Epeck & Epeck, of Blacksburg, and represented by Henry E. Lee, Commonwealth's attorney.

George Johnson was tried for maliciously shooting and wounding a servant, a petty; Frank Brown, for larceny, was given six months in jail.

In the case of the Commonwealth against Allen Vaughan, charged with shooting J. A. Mason from ambush at Burkeville, the jury rendered a verdict of acquittal. The only evidence in this case was the testimony of witnesses that Hurricane Branch's bloodhound trailed Allen to his house, but he escaped by jumping, and the jury gave the prisoner the benefit of the doubt.
